CHARLESTON CHRISTMAS PARADE

the pictures from the Christmas parade are on the web site under events

For those unable to attend the parade yesterday you missed a fun experience. Thanks to Ricki Silveria for arranging everything. A special thanks to Mike Brown for use of the four wheeler and trailer. We had a visit from an elf from Columbia.

I believe a fun time was had by all that were able to attend.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Christmas party December 13, 7:15pm at the Dog and Duck Summerville. Check the website for details.

ANNUAL DUES

Annual dues are payable prior to December 31st. Please pay Sylvia Arrowwood (membership) or Don Little (treasurer). Fifteen for individual and twenty for family.

If you joined September or later this year you do not owe.

WINS & BRAGS

Our boy, CH Topaz High Stakes, won breed and a Group Two placement in Concord on the 19th of November -- at the age of 17 months!

Our girl, Cricket, qualified for her first leg in Rally Novice (score was totally the result of handler error)!

FDA continues to products

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is again cautioning consumers that chicken jerky products for dogs (also sold as chicken tenders, strips, or treats) may be associated with illness in dogs. In the last 12 months, FDA has seen an increase in the number of complaints it received of dog illnesses associated with consumption of chicken jerky products imported from China. These complaints have been reported to FDA by dog owners and veterinarians.

FDA issued a cautionary warning regarding chicken jerky products to consumers in September 2007 and a Preliminary Animal Health Notification in December of 2008. After seeing the number of complaints received drop off during the latter part of 2009 and most of 2010, the FDA is once again seeing the number of complaints rise to the levels of concern that prompted release of our earlier warnings.

Chicken jerky products should not be substituted for a balanced diet and are intended to be fed occasionally in small quantities.

FDA is advising consumers who choose to feed their dogs chicken jerky products to watch their dogs closely for any or all of the following signs that may occur within hours to days of feeding the products: decreased appetite; decreased activity; vomiting; diarrhea, sometimes with blood; increased water consumption and/or increased urination. If the dog shows any of these signs, stop feeding the chicken jerky product. Owners should consult their veterinarian if signs are severe or persist for more than 24 hours. Blood tests may indicate kidney failure (increased urea nitrogen and creatinine). Urine tests may indicate Fanconi syndrome (increased glucose). Although most dogs appear to recover, some reports to the FDA have involved dogs that have died.

FDA, in addition to several animal health diagnostic laboratories in the US, is working to determine why these products are associated with illness in dogs. FDA's Veterinary Laboratory Response Network (VLRN) is now available to support these animal health diagnostic laboratories. To date, scientists have not been able to determine a definitive cause for the reported illnesses. FDA continues extensive chemical and microbial testing but has not identified a contaminant.

The FDA continues to actively investigate the problem and its origin. Many of the illnesses reported may be the result of causes other than eating chicken jerky. Veterinarians and consumers alike should report cases of animal illness associated with pet foods to the FDA Consumer Complaint Coordinator in their state or go to <http://www.fda.gov/petfoodcomplaints>.
